

Carrie Frye

Owner & Chief Designer
Carrie Frye Interior Design

Carrie is known among peers and clients as a rock star designer and entrepreneur – a major force behind some of Charlotte’s most beloved eateries and the corporate offices of some of its largest brands.

Carrie founded Carrie Frye Interior Design in September 2013 to offer an experience where every client receives senior-level design work that drives business results and creates spaces for people to enjoy. As the company’s lead designer, Carrie personally oversees all projects and begins each project by understanding the client’s business goals.

Her firm specializes in restaurant design and commercial interiors. Its projects include some of Charlotte’s most successful restaurants – La Belle Helene, The Crunkleton, The Waterman, Living Kitchen, Yafo Kitchen and Sea Level – as well as corporate offices for national and international brands including Diversey, Elior, MapAnything and Valspar.

Carrie honed her design chops over 18 years at Studio Fusion PA, Narmour Wright and Omni Architecture, where she led the design of Strike City and Vida Cantina in the Epicenter, Firebird's, Bad Daddy’s Burger Bar and Midwood Smokehouse. She also designed office spaces for firms including Ingersoll Rand and Snyder's Lance Corp.

Carrie serves on the board of trustees of The Charlotte Museum of History and enjoys watching her boys play baseball, reading and taking trips that drive her design inspiration.
